PREFACE

THE proposal to publish a list of all living men who have at any time been registered as students in Harvard University was first considered at a meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs held in 1905, in Louisville, and received the hearty endorsement of that body. In 1907, when the Harvard Alumni Association was reorganized, the preparation of this catalogue was adopted as one of the chief activities of the Association, and the General Secretary was instructed to formulate a plan for the compilation and publication of the list. A card catalogue was made up of all men whose names appeared in the Annual Catalogues as far back as the time of the oldest surviving graduates, and class lists, address lists of graduate schools, professional directories, directories of cities and towns, telephone lists, and many other sources of information were used.

In the meantime the whole project was brought to the attention of the Corporation with a request for a subsidy to carry on the work until the proceeds from the sale of the first edition should become available. To this request the Corporation made a favorable response, thus for the first time assuring the completion of the undertaking.

The first edition was issued in 1910 and included 32,188 names, only 1656 of which appeared without addresses. This second edition, corrected to September 15, 1913, contains 35,194 names, and addresses have been found for all but 1197.

A word as to the nature and purposes of the list. The prosperity of an endowed university is largely in the hands of its alumni and other students. Their loyalty, based on the service which their university has rendered them, must be directed and kept fresh by their contact with each other and with the university itself. An essential means for such contact is a list of addresses, arranged both alphabetically and geographically. Hitherto there has been no adequate way of securing for a state or city Harvard Club a list of men eligible for its membership. Thus, in the aggregate, a large amount of energy and loyalty that, with some means of coöperation, might have been directed effectively for the benefit of Harvard has gone to waste or been wholly unavailable. Hereafter the Directory will provide a means whereby all Harvard men living in any town, city, state, or section can be reached, whether for their own social advantage, or for coöperation in undertakings for the immediate benefit of the University.

Among the most loyal and useful members of what President Eliot has called the " living Harvard force " are many men who hold no degree from the University. This publication is intended to serve in some measure as a recognition of their devotion to Harvard, and as a means of fostering that devotion in future. Graduates and non-graduates of the University are therefore included in both the alphabetical and the geographical list. But it should be carefully noted that no person whose name is in the list is a graduate of the University (at the time of going to press) unless the degree is explicitly recorded. The date of each degree is assumed to be the last year of recorded residence unless a different year is stated. Thus the entry "John Doe, c 1895–9, A.B." indicates that the degree of A.B. was conferred in 1899. If the degree was conferred out of course, the date is given after the degree.

The Alphabetical List which forms the first part of this book gives under each name the years of residence at the University, the academic degrees received, the occupation, and the address. The Geographical List forms the second part of the book, and gives, in addition to the address and occupation, the dates of graduation or the last year of residence at the University. A list is also included of the men for whom no addresses were found. Many of these are presumably dead. The editor will be greatly obliged if Harvard men will help him in reducing this list of the missing by sending him the addresses of the living, and information as to the time and place of death of those who have died. A few statistical tables showing the graduates and non-graduates of each department, the number of men engaged in the more common occupations, and the number in each section of the country, have been included at the end of the volume.

The Committee in charge of the Directory realize that such a publication will necessarily contain some errors and omissions, and that addresses which were correct five months ago, when the requests for information were first sent out, may have since been changed. They will be grateful however for any corrections that are sent to them. In conclusion they wish to acknowledge their obligations to the Secretaries of Classes and other alumni organizations, to the editors of the alumni lists of the Professional Schools, and to many other graduates and former students for advice and help.

ABBREVIATIONS

Italic type has been used for the abbreviations designating the departments of the University, other institutions, occupations, and for the names of officers of instruction and administration who have not studied at Harvard University. Small capitals have been used for degrees. A list of the degrees conferred by Harvard University is given on the preceding page.

DEPARTMENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY

The following abbreviations have been used to indicate the department of the University in which work has been done.

b Bussey Institution
c College
dn Dental School
dv Divinity School
g Graduate School of Arts and Sciences gs Graduate Schools of Applied Science
gb Graduate School of Business Administration
l Law School
m Medical School s Lawrence Scientific School
v Veterinary School

DEGREES

When a degree was conferred in the last year of recorded residence the date has not been repeated in the Alphabetical List. A degree conferred in another year is followed by the date. In the case of out-of-course degrees the date of the degree is followed by the date, in parenthesis, when it was actually conferred.

In the Geographical List the date of each degree conferred by the University is given. A date unaccompanied by a degree indicates the last year of residence.

OCCUPATIONS

The following abbreviations have been used to classify the more common occupations.

Acct. Accounting
Adv. Advertising
Agr. Agriculture
Arch. Architecture
Bus. Mgr. . . Business Management
